DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 03/23/2007 has been entered.

2. Claims 1-10 and 13-15 have been withdrawn.

Claims 11 and 12 are under examination.

3. The rejection of claims 11 and 12 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement is withdrawn in response to Applicant's arguments filed on 03/23/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112 – enablement

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a method of evaluating the effect of a test compound on diabetes by exposing the test compound to a T2DN rat obtain by introducing the mitochondrial genome and six loci on chromosome 2, 11, 16, 19 and the X chromosome at markers D2Rat12, D11Rat93, D16Rat15, D19Rat59, DXMit4 and Dxmit42 of the Fawn Hooded rat into the genetic background of GK rats, wherein the rat develops progressive proteinuria and glomerulosclerosis leading to diabetic nephropathy, does not reasonably provide enablement for a method of evaluating the effect of a test compound on diabetes by exposing the test compound to a T2DN rat obtain by a cross between a Fawn Hooded rat and a GK rat, wherein the rat develops progressive proteinuria and glomerulosclerosis leading to diabetic nephropathy. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure meets the enablement requirement of 35 USC § 112, first paragraph, have been described by the court in In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 (CA FC 1988).

Wands states on page 1404,

"Factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure would require undue experimentation have been summarized by the board in Ex parte Forman. They include (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount of direction or guidance presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6) the relative skills of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims."

While determining whether a specification is enabling, one considers whether the claimed invention provides sufficient guidance to make or use the claimed invention, if not, whether an artisan would require undue experimentation to make and use the claimed invention and whether working examples have been provided.

The instant claims are drawn to a method of testing anti-diabetic agents by using a rat that models the human disease. The specification clearly teaches that the claimed rat can be obtained only by introducing the mitochondrial genome and six loci on chromosome 2, 11, 16, 19 and the X chromosome at markers D2Rat12, D11Rat93, D16Rat15, D19Rat59, DXMit4 and Dxmit42 of the Fawn Hooded rat into the genetic background of GK rats, wherein this specific cross results in the T2DN rat that mimics the human disease. Neither the art nor the specification provides support for obtaining the T2DN rat with the claimed characteristics by crossing a Fawn Hooded rat and a GK rat, as generally claimed. In conclusion, the instant claims are not enabled to their entire scope.

6. No claim is allowed.
